FIGHT IN MEETING OVER CONGRESSMAN

CONGRESSIONAL CONVENTION OF PROGRESSIVES MEETS HERE THIS AFTERNOON.

VOTE TO HAVE NOMINEE

Vote on the Motion Is 20 to 10—Committee Is Appointed to Select Names.

BULLETIN 4:15

The convention has nominated the following candidates:

For Congressman—

I. F. EDWARDS, DIXON.

For Member State Board of Equalization—

ISAAC M. EVANS, Carroll County.

BULLETIN 3:35

The convention voted, 29 to 10, to nominate a candidate for congress. Eight delegates from Whiteside, one from Jo Daviess and one from Lee voted against the motion. A committee has been appointed to select the names.

BULLETIN 3:30

Langdon of Ogle county has moved to amend Burchell's motion, to read that a candidate be nominated. J. E. Erwin is speaking in favor of a candidate; it is evident the solid Whiteside delegation will be out voted.

Delegates from the six counties in the 13th congressional district met in Dixon at the city hall today at 2 p.m. for the purpose of nominating a progressive candidate for congress to make a campaign against Hon. J. C. McKenzie of Elizabeth, the republican candidate, and also to name a candidate for state board of equalization.

The convention was called to order by H. L. Fordham, state committeeman who in a short address announced that when Gov. Johnson made his tour of Illinois he would not only speak in favor of the national progressive ticket, but that he would campaign for a state progressive ticket as well as county tickets. He urged the members of the progressive party to work hard and wisely and to remember that they are laying the foundation of a great party of the future. He declared that it was necessary that progressive senators be sent to Springfield to back up the action of Frank Funk, candidate for governor, of whose election he appeared to be most sanguine. He then spoke of some criticism that had been directed toward him and announced that he was ready to resign and asked the convention to name someone in his place.

NAMED TEMPORARY CHAIRMAN. Following his speech Mr. Fordham was made temporary chairman of the convention and R. M. Davis was elected temporary secretary. Roll call, which followed, showed no contests from any of the counties represented and therefore there was no necessity for a committee on credentials. Because of a controversy as to the eligibility of some of the delegates present it was decided that each county separately decide on the delegates to be seated and to report in writing to the temporary officers.

Permanent Organization.

Following this action the temporary organization was made permanent on motion of J. T. Williams of Sterling, after which Mr. Fordham asked that the convention consider the nomination of a progressive candidate for congress and state board of equalization.

Against Candidate.

Mr. Fordham's request precipitated the first spirit of the convention. R. L. Burchell of Erie, chairman of the Whiteside delegation, offered a resolution that no progressive candidate be nominated or placed in the field. The motion was promptly seconded by A. B. Wicker of Lee county.

Miss Mary Wynn will spend Monday in Chicago.

EMPEROR WILLIAM

$10,000 FIRE AT LYNDON.

Lyndon, Ill., Aug. 31—Special to Telegraph—The Ray Green farm, one of the largest in Whiteside county, which is located near Lyndon, was visited by fire at an early hour this morning, entailing a $10,000 loss.

Three immense barns were burned to the ground, many thousands of bushels of grain and much hay going up in smoke, with the machinery and other articles of value that the neighbors who rushed to the scene were unable to get out.

The department desires to reduce Sunday work to a minimum so that as many of the employees as possible may enjoy a complete day of rest on Sunday.

The regular dispatch of Sunday mail from the office to trains must be made as usual.

The place is better known to old settlers in this vicinity as the Giles Green farm.

ALL IS IN READINESS FOR ELK FESTIVAL

MEETING OF COMMITTEES SHOW THAT EVERY DETAIL IS COMPLETED.

NOT A DULL MOMENT ALL DAY

Program of Amusements Is Varied and Complete and the Enormous Crowd Will Be Well Cared For.

As was expected by those in charge, last night's meeting of the committees who have arranged for the big New England barbecue and chicken fry to be given by the Elks at Watson's island Monday, showed that every detail has been attended to, and bright and early Monday morning the various service committees will get things ready to accommodate the crowds which it is now certain will participate in the Elks' second annual gathering.

Every indication is that the out-of-town representation will be fully four times as great as it was last year and a bright day will bring about an attendance about twice as large as the crowd which gathered at the Starin farm last year. But little remains to be said of the affair. Every promise that the committee has made will be faithfully carried out, and the slogan, "Not a Dull Moment All Day," is a truthful one.

The preliminary to the wrestling bout between Ted Tonneman and Young Beall should prove exceptionally interesting, as the committee has secured two local heavyweights of talent in Freight Handler Goodman and Plow Maker Jones. These men will go to the mat at 3 o'clock sharp, and will be followed by Tonneman and Beall in the main go. The Ryans promise three clever stunts as their share of the doings, and during the intervals the Marquette orchestra will play. There will be plenty of everything and transportation facilities are excellent, as boats will leave both the south and north side docks every five minutes after nine o'clock in the morning.

ERWIN'S NAME ONE OF THREE

PRESENTED FOR PROGRESSIVE CANDIDATE FOR CONGRESSMAN-AT-LARGE.

The matter of choosing progressive candidates for congressman-at-large, for which a meeting of the state committee was held in Chicago yesterday, was referred to the executive committee of which H. L. Fordham of this city is a member. The name of Attorney John E. Erwin of this city was one of three names presented: Judge Meyers of southern Illinois being one candidate. The name of the third is withheld from publication, as it is said he is a prominent republican who is considering deserting his party.

INSPECTED COUNTY HOME.

Supervisors Welty, Buckley, Long, Drew and Gross, members of alms house committee, spent yesterday at the county home, inspecting buildings, fences, stock, etc., to ascertain what repairs are needed. They found the farm in excellent shape.

HAS PURCHASED BUS LINE.

John Donovan has purchased from Alonzo Gage his Nachusa House bus line and will add to it hotel and party service. He will make his headquarters at Heistand's livery, phone 66, and his friends predict success for him in his new business.

COUNCIL WILL MEET TUESDAY, SEPT. 2ND

Because Monday is a legal holiday the regular meeting of the city council will be held Tuesday evening instead of Monday. As it will be the first meeting of the month the bills for August will be passed upon.

$10,000 FIRE AT LYNDON.

Lyndon, Ill., Aug. 31—Special to Telegraph—The Ray Green farm, one of the largest in Whiteside county, which is located near Lyndon, was visited by fire at an early hour this morning, entailing a $10,000 loss.

Three immense barns were burned to the ground, many thousands of bushels of grain and much hay going up in smoke, with the machinery and other articles of value that the neighbors who rushed to the scene were unable to get out.

The place is better known to old settlers in this vicinity as the Giles Green farm.

BOARD OF REVIEW COMPLETES WORK

HAVE INCREASED THE TAXABLE PROPERTY IN MANY TOWNSHIPS.

DIXON TAXES WILL BE HIGHER

Amount of Taxable Property in This Township Is Lower, Hence Taxes Will Be Raised This Year.

The Lee county board of review has practically completed its work, and will Monday put the finishing touches on its investigations which have uncovered $257,307 worth of taxable property in the county, which was not scheduled with the assessors of the various townships.

Elsewhere in this issue of the Telegraph will be found a table showing of the taxable valuation of real and personal property in the county. The figures given in the table are for assessed valuation, or one-third of the total valuations, and the grand total shows that the assessed valuation of taxable property in the county is $16,237,080, the total valuation being three times that sum, or $48,711,240.

INCREASE IN MANY TOWNSHIPS.

The board, after carefully reviewing all schedules returned by the assessors and going over the mortgage books, returned increases in all but four townships; no changes being made in Hamilton, May or Viola. But one decrease is recorded, that of Lee Center, where the board reduced the assessed valuation of taxable property $1369.

DIXON FAR BEHIND.

The returns of taxable property in Dixon is much lower than that of last year and consequently the tax rate in this township will be considerably higher than last year. The returns of the assessor this year showed a depreciation of $120,000 in the total valuation of personal property in the township. The board has daded $66,600 to this amount, reducing the shortage from last year to $113,400.

STORES TO CLOSE LABOR DAY

LOCAL PAINTER GOT CONTRACT TO REGLAIZE WINDOWS AT FEDERAL BUILDING.

The U. S. postal department has awarded the contract for repainting and repairing the windows at the post office building to D. B. Uhl of this city, his bid being the lowest. The old putty must be removed from each pane of glass, the sash primed with white lead and the glass replaced with white lead and putty.

MONDAY IS LABOR DAY.

Announcement was made by the boss barbers today that barber shops will remain closed all day.

John Wolf of Sterling was here yesterday.

COUNTY SCHOOLS ARE IMPROVED

SCHOOLS OF LEE COUNTY OPEN UNDER HOST FAVORABLE AUSPICES.

HOPE FOR SCHOOL CONSOLIDATION

Many Educators Believe Township Consolidation Is Best for Educational Advantages.

The reopening of the rural schools of Lee county will take place under greatly improved conditions, according to County Superintendent L. W. Miller, who has received reports from the directors of a majority of schools, which tell of true progressive spirit in the matter of the education of the young.

Nearly every school house in the county has received some beneficial aid during the summer. In many of the districts the school buildings have been built under them, new and healthful heating apparatus has been installed and a number of the school rooms have been equipped with new and modern seats at desks, conducive to better health of the students.

CONSOLIDATION ON THE WAY.

That the consolidation movement, which leading educators pronounce the only way to the very best educational equipments, is on the day in Lee county is evidenced by the reports from the directors of districts 17, 72 and 108. The schools in these districts have been closed and the directors are paying tuition and transportation costs to send their pupils to neighboring schools, thereby enabling the employment of better instructors and bringing about added uniformity of work.

Mr. Miller is sending to each teacher in the county a circular letter under date of Sept. 1, outlining the approved state course of study, showing how it is to be applied to the work in Lee county and calling attention to its relation to the local conditions.

NEW HOSPITAL MATRON.

Catherine Dewey of Toulon, Ill., who has been engaged by the board of the Katherine Shaw Bethea hospital as matron of the nurses' home to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Mrs. Marie L. Hopper, has arrived in Dixon and assumed her duties.

NORTH DIXON SCHOOLS TO OPEN MONDAY

Pupils and teachers of the North Dixon schools are asked to remember Prof. Baldwin's announcement that the school term will open on Monday morning, when there will be some examinations and all pupils will be given their book lists.

BOY FALLS 2,000 FEET TO DEATH

Youth's Foot Catches in Guy Rope of Rapidly Ascending Balloon.

AIRMAN TRIES TO SAVE HIM

Air Bag Soars Away With Child Dangling From the Craft—Thousands Scream While His Parents Wait Helplessly.

Flint, Mich., Aug. 31.—Thousands of men and women, screaming in agony of helplessness, watched Chester Betts, fourteen years old, dangle from a guy rope of a balloon while it rose 2,000 feet above their heads, then dash to earth as the body tore loose from the entangling rope.

Among the shuddering thousands who watched the tragic accident were the lad's father and mother, from whom he had wandered in boyish desire to be near the center of the attraction offered by the balloon. They did not know the swinging form was that of their son until, with others of the crowd, they rushed to the spot where the crumpled little body lay.

Mother Faints at Scene.

Then the mother fainted and the father, with tears streaming down his cheeks, turned from his dead to care for his living.

The youth was standing near the bag when the word to cast off was given. One of the ropes caught about his waist and, evidently too frightened to scream, he was drawn rapidly toward the sky, only his white and drawn face showing those who stood near a momentary flash of the mental agony he was enduring.

Those of the crowd too far away to discern the object plainly at first thought the swaying form was that of a dummy and laughed at the device of the aeronaut to add another thrill to his performance. But the laughter died on parted lips as a woman's scream directed attention to the frantic efforts the balloonist was making to pull the boy to the trapeze upon which he sat.

NATIONAL CROP IMPROVEMENT ASSOCIATION. The damage done to corn in the corn belt is estimated to be 200,000,000 bushels annually.

Next to poor seed corn, the corn root worm is the greatest source of loss to the corn crop. "The remedy is rotation of crops, never growing more than two crops of corn continuously on the same ground," said Prof. P. G. Holden of Iowa. "Farmers may rest assured of this fact."

DEMENTTOWN

Nothing to do until Tuesday. One wonders if Taft, Wilson and T. R. will observe the day by quitting labor.

It is with reasonable pride that the business men of the Ave. view the manner in which the people of the rest of Dixon are commencing to look at this street-oiling project. Remember who started the game in Dixon?

No, Anxious Reader, the name Kindling, as applied to the opening attraction at the opera house, is not supposed to remind one of the approaching season, and it is vehemently denied that the coal dealers have had anything to do with getting the show here.

P. O. Sullivan, the Ave. philosopher, reckons that there are any number of "stewdious" men in Dixon at certain times.

Ever notice that when a moth tacks a pair of trousers it never wastes any time on the legs?

Society in Dixon is now like Gaul in that it is divided into three parts: touring car, runabout and pedes-trian.

Some political candidates we can mention evidently feel if they get the full vote they'll be elected, there fore they don't waste any arguments on sensible people.

2002 Cass St., St. Louis, Mo.—"For five years I suffered with itching of my body and scalp. My trouble began with a rash on my lower limbs which was very annoying and my scalp was literally covered with dandruff. Emergency Case.

How and for What the Content May Be Used: Absorbent cotton is the ideal dressing for most wounds. It absorbs the discharge, is light, soft and clean. Common cotton will not absorb, because of the oil it contains; it has not been sterilized; is not clean and should not be used. Absorbent cotton is sterilized, long fibered cotton. It should be kept away from the air and dust until needed.

Cotton Bandages: These are made of specially prepared cotton, free from starch or filling. They are rolls wrapped for use and should be kept clear from dust.

Surgeon's Plaster: This is used to cover and to fasten together edges of wounds—usually small ones. It should never be applied to burns, as the flesh and skin have been destroyed and the removal of the plaster lacerates the wound.

Mustard Plasters: These are so readily obtained, ready-made, and in so much more convenient form than the old fashioned mustard plaster that they are best for the emergency case. The ingredients of these are spread upon paper and are known as mustard leaves. They may be used whenever a mustard plaster is indicated.

Surgeon's Soap: For cleansing and sterilizing the hands of the operator: infected wounds, ulcers, sores, etc.

Antiseptic Tablets, (Very Poisonous). Great care should be taken to hinder children and irresponsible persons from touching them. They are colored blue so that no mistake can be made in their use. One of these tablets dissolved in four ounces of water makes a solution of Corrosive Sublimate of 1 to 1000; excellent for dressing wounds and sterilizing the hands of the operator.

Sol. Hyd. Oxide of Iron: Used as an antidote in arsenic poisoning or from Paris Green. The Oxide of Zinc spend a little time studying up the ointment is excellent as a milk and healing dressing for burns and skin diseases.

Peroxide of Hydrogen: An effective disinfectant and safe dressing for wounds. Has a wide range of usefulness and is an excellent preventive for infection of wounds, used before the dressings are put on.

Rubber Tubing: To be used as a tourniquet for flushing the stomach. As a tourniquet it should be wrapped tightly around the bleeding limb and tied. As a stomach tube, place one end down the throat of the patient, insert a small funnel, or something improvised for the purpose—and pour lukewarm water into the stomach, to dilute the poison and cause vomiting.

The uses of the other contents of the emergency case, such as scissors, forceps, pins, etc., will suggest themselves.

Club Notes.

Jackson.

Dear Doctor:
I have most violent attacks of Gas tralgia which effect the heart. I there hope of permanent cure? Since the last attack have been eating nothing but whole wheat bread dipped in olive oil with a sprinkling of sugar still my tongue is coated all over constantly. Grape-nuts and rich cream sour on my stomach. Can eat nothing without more or less indigestion. I drink a cup of real hot water with salt before breakfast and have been drinking medicine upon physician's prescription before meals. Am taking a course of physical culture; circulation poor; have nasal catarrh slightly. Live on farm.—F. C.

No wonder the poor stomach rebels at some of the things which are put into it. Some time ago I saw a suggestion as to what the human stomach should be made of; it was suggested that it should be made of boil-er-plate, double copper riveted and asbestos lined. People assault their stomach constantly with a mixture of supposed foods which when it reaches the stomach is transformed into an indigestible mass. The stomach does the best it can with these to digest and passes it on into the intestines, where it sours and putrefies. The digestive system withstands and then goes on a strike. The persons who harbor this wonder why their stomach won't stand anything and why nothing seems to agree with them. They would not for anything stop eating for a few days and clean out the intestinal tract and give the whole digestive system a rest, and the seeds of the alfalfa will grow.

Almost everything that could be said in praise of any crop can be said in one scientific book or another, been said of alfalfa. Yet many farmers today are making no attempt to get it started. Farmers will say "Oh, yes, it is a good thing, but it won't grow on my land."

This is precisely what we want to dispense here today. If you have made up your mind to grow alfalfa, it is of prime importance that you exercise great care in procuring the best seed obtainable. Good seed is expensive, but poor seed is still more costly. On account of its cost and care in seeding, the purity and germination of the seed should receive a very thorough test. Begin in advance to determine what is to be the source of your supply. When you buy, subject to test and send a fair sample of about an ounce to your experiment station, where it will be tested without charge. Certain spurious seeds closely resemble alfalfa. These are apt to be present and only an expert can detect them. Sweet clover seed, which is closely related to alfalfa, and not a very bad weed, is quite common. But there is a far more serious and more noxious seed, that of the so-called dodder. This is a very dangerous parasite, which when once gets a start is ruinous to the growing crop. I might mention many others, including buckhorn or false cause of the trouble. But they will run off to a doctor or druggist and get a supply of artificial digestives so that they can continue their gormandizing.

I will say to F. C. that branches of the same nerve go to both the stomach and heart; if the stomach is distressed the heart will suffer also. I believe that whole wheat bread dipped in olive oil is not the proper diet for your stomach at the present time, neither is grape-nuts and rich cream. I think an exclusive diet of fresh milk or buttermilk after a day or two of fasting would be indicated; after this diet has been carried out for a week or two a little mutton or poultry may be taken with Zweibach and a little fruit. Full diet should not be indulged in for several weeks. Sometimes the contracted muscles along the spine will bring an attack of gas-tralgia, it can then be overcome by vibratory stimulation or skillful manipulation. I will advise you to continue your physical culture exercises.

SEEDING ALFALFA.

TIME TO SOW.

Weeds are likely to be the most dangerous enemies of the young plants in sections or seasons of the heavy rainfall, unless in the extreme northern parts of our state, where the danger from weeds is not so great as that from winter killing of summer-sown plants. In other words I would sow in humid regions from the middle of July to the middle of August, in well-drained, mellow and weedless soil. I have had some success sowing seed at this time in northern Illinois. My practice has been to sow as early in the spring as practical with spring grain, preferably barley, sowing not more than 1 1/2 bushels of any grain per acre.

I sow from 15 to 20 pounds of alfalfa seed per acre, which I have found under ordinary conditions to give the best results. I am convinced that much less seed could be used, if land were well enough fitted to insure growth and survival of every plant. I sow with ordinary grain drill with broadcast seed attachment behind drill. If sown without cover crop, which I am convinced is the prevalent method seed may be sown broadcast with a hand or wheelbarrow seeder, or with a seed drill made for the purpose. The ideal cover crop is beardless barley, sown at the rate of three pecks per acre, leaving it to ripen, as it does not appear to injure the alfalfa.

If the farmer is certain that he has good seed, his seed-bed well prepared and his land free from weeds, less than twenty pounds of seed may be sown safely. The most important point in this connection is to plant very shallow, from one-half to one and one-half inches deep. If the seeds are covered three inches deep, the young plant has a poor chance of ever reaching the surface.

timothy, but must not go into the subject further.

KIND OF SEED.

The kind of seed to be used must be determined by the localities selected. It is quite customary for northern growers to select Montana grown seed, thinking it hardier. Again for the northwest, "Grimm" alfalfa has come into much favor and appears to be most desirable for growers in that section. I have had no experience with Grimm alfalfa. Dates for sowing alfalfa must vary with the section of the country and the special weather conditions of a given section. The underlying principle to govern this is to sow as far in advance as possible of what is likely to be the most trying period of the young plant's life.

KINDLING.

Rev. Wm. E. Danforth, rector of Christ church at Elmhurst, a fashionable suburb of Chicago, recently delivered a sermon upon the widely discussed play, Kindling in which Sarah Padden will appear at the opera house Wednesday, Sept. 4. He strongly recommended the play, commenting particularly on the truth of the lines given to Maggie Schultz, the central character of the story:

Being Right

"Bein' right is greater than bein' good—and it's different. It's easy enough bein' good, because everybody agrees about it, but in doin' right there's nothin' to back you up but your own sense."

The character of Rev. Brian Kelly in The Rosary, an early attraction here, makes people think of their parish priest. Rowland and Clifford have met with tremendous success with the play.

FAMILY THEATRE

Manager Michelstetler announces a splendid program for the week beginning Sept. 2, Labor day, which will include Thiessen's Famous Trained Dogs. This is the classiest canine act in the amusement world and these remarkably trained dogs perform feats heretofore deemed impossible. The Yalto Duo offer a whirlwind dancing novelty of exceptional merit, costuming their number in a gorgeous manner. For the second half of the week, beginning Thursday, the 5th, a particularly strong comedy program has been arranged which will include Logan & Ferris in a comedy number entitled Hebrew Soldier and the General, one of the most humorous skits in vaudeville. The act is complete with comedy, good singing and laughter, but the special feature will consist of Gilroy & Correill in a scenic nautical novelty built for laughing purposes only. Mr. Gilroy will be remembered as the comedian with Gilroy, Haynes & Montgomery and his laugh producing proclivities are known to be exceptionally strong.

Successful situations that are introduced in this number make a positive assurance of 20 minutes of laughter. Particular attention is called to the program for the last half of the week, it being a solid comedy bill.

LASALLE OPERA HOUSE CHICAGO.

From all accounts Harry Askin, manager of the LaSalle opera house, Chicago, has done it again, for enthusiasm to the very limit of the English language are the encomiums passed upon "The Girl at the Gate," by those who saw the new Hough-Donaghey-Jerome musical comedy in Saginaw, Mich., where it received its premiere on Friday night, Aug. 23; Port Huron, Mich., where it performed on Saturday afternoon and night, and Detroit, where it opened for race-week last Monday night, Aug. 26th, before being brought to the "home theatre," the LaSalle, itself, on Sunday night, Sept. 1, for what is expected to be an all-season run.

P. Goodale, the veteran reviewer of the Detroit Free Press, a man who has seen everything of note in the American theatre for the last 45 years, said of The Girl at the Gate:

"The new musical comedy by Will M. Hough, Frederick Donaghey and Ben M. Jerome shows that this triumvirate of LaSalle writers have surpassed their best previous work in The Girl at the Gate, which is not only pulsatingly American in every line and note, but is a veritable sensation of fun, music, pretty women and gorgeous staging."

Herbert Cortell, Lucy Weston, Olive Wyndham (loaned by the Lienier company to the LaSalle management) for the title role of The Girl at the Gate, Catherine Rowe Palmer, William Gaston, Will Phillips, Arthur Bell and Franklin Bentzen are members of the superb cast. The Girl at the Gate has been staged by R. H. Burnside, the famous director of the New York Hippodrome.

The first special matinee of The Girl at the Gate will be given next Monday afternoon, Labor day, Sept. 2. Last season's admirable arrangement of LaSalle matinees will be continued—Tuesday and Thursday at popular prices, and Saturday afternoon at regular prices.

ALFALFA AND LIVE STOCK.

Successful Grower Makes Pertinent Remarks—Can No Longer Bed the Cattle With Corn—Situation Is Threatening Ultimate Land Values Farmer Quits Stock When Profits Stop.

At Old Salem chautauqua grounds and before a large number of farmers, W. R. Goodwin, farmer, stockman, managing editor of Breeder's Gazette and a member of the Illinois Alfalfa Growers' association, gave an important address from which we quote the following:

Alfalfa and corn solve the problem of carrying live stock. Farmers are natural skeptics. They have been told so many things that are not true that they instinctively distrust new things. Particularly hard is it for them to realize that many old things have passed away. This conservatism costs the farmer much money, but its absence would probably have cost him more.

Would Amend Scripture.

When he is told that alfalfa is the most valuable crop he can take off of his ground, his ear is dulled. The assurance savors of the gold brick offer. He is willing to let his neighbor try it. He wants to amend the scripture. He would like it to read: "Let thy neighbor prove all things, and then hold fast that which is good." I do not accept such revision of the scripture. I allowed myself to be scared out of two years' profit from alfalfa by people who told me that alfalfa would not grow in DuPage county. I showed them. They saw.

Economy of Production Essential.

Alfalfa growing would be useless without live stock. Stock growing is costly without alfalfa. The man who has the silo and alfalfa has learned the last lesson in the economical handling of stock on the corn belt farm. The imperative demand of this insistent idea is for greater yields per acre. The farmer who fails to heed this demand will fall of profit. It is as inexorable as death. Cattle can no longer be bedded in corn. Illinois lands are no longer rich. Economy of production, increased yield and conservation of food values are essential to profit on high priced land.

Elevator Casts Shadow.

The elevator with its alluring price has cast a shadow over the soil of Illinois. Corn growing, profitable to the present generation for years, already gives evidence of the folly of stock abandonment, and with each recurring year the vice of farming without stock will be emphasized. Alfalfa, corn and stock will redeem already depleted soils, save further deterioration and insure profits on land unprecedentedly high in price.

I do not argue alfalfa. I declare it. If the farmer is indifferent to argument, he should be amenable to fact. Note this monstrous anomaly situation: A state association has been formed of thinking, acting, achieving men to force dollars into the pockets of their fellow farmers. The Illinois Alfalfa Growers' association came into being for this express purpose. It has nothing to sell. It does not seek votes. It has no axe to grind but its members spend time, effort and money to force on the attention of the farmers of this state the most valuable plant that ever grew on Illinois soil.

Men Farm for Money.

Ought not this fact drive its way home to the mind of every Illinois farmer? Enough literature has been published on alfalfa to flood the state. Enough facts are known to destroy indifference and enforce action. The stock situation in this country is serious. Prices are high beyond precedent for meat making animals, because grain farming has so largely superseded stock farming. The situation threatens the ultimate value of our land and the present comfort of our consumers. All farmers know that the chief cause is the greater and more certain profits in grain farming. It is idle to quibble. Men farm for money. They would not deliberately rob the soil unless their immediate necessities required it. All that a man has he will give for his life and the sustenance of his family. He will rob his soil if he will not rob his neighbor. Illinois farmers have not so generally abandoned stock because they preferred grain farming, or because they did not realize the desirability of maintaining fertility. They quit stock simply because the profits quit.

Farmers will turn again to stock when the balance between supply and demand for corn is restablished, and they come to realize the decreased cost of production of meat animals and dairy products effected by silage and alfalfa.

The Illinois farmer can not put a bale of alfalfa hay in his pocket, but if he will open his ears the Illinois Alfalfa Growers' association will put into his pocket gold dollars from alfalfa hay.—Illinois Farmers' Institute.

"I can't remember back to the time," she continued, "when I didn't do things like that to you, just as you did to me, and neither of us ever wanted an explanation before. Are you trying to make up your mind to disown me, or something?"

He leaned back moodily into his chair without answering her.

After a little perplexed silence, she spoke again. "I didn't know things were going wrong with you. I didn't even suspect it until this morning, when Uncle Jerry said—"

"What?" Tom interrupted. "What does the governor know about it? What did he say?"

"Why, nothing, but that you were playing in rather hard luck, he thought, and that I was to be nice to you. Is the world going badly—really badly—really badly?"

"Yes." That curt monosyllable was evidently all the answer he meant to make. At that she gave up all attempt to console him, dropped back in her chair and cuddled a little deeper down under her bear skin, her face, three-quarters away from him, turned toward that part of the sky that was already becoming glorious with the hints of sunset.

"You've never had any doubt at all, have you, that I really deserved the job of being your big brother; that I was that quite as genuinely as if I had been born that way?"

"No," she said; "of course not, Tom, dear. What put such an idea into your head?"

He paled a little, and it was a minute or two before he could command the words he wanted, to his lips. "Because of my hopes, I suppose," he said unsteadily; "because I had hoped, absurdly enough, for the other answer. You asked as a joke a while back if I meant to disown you. Well, I do, from that relationship—because, I'm not fit for the job; because—because—I've come to love you in the other way."

She looked at him in perfectly blank astonishment. He would not meet her eyes, his own, their pupils almost parallel, gazed out, unseeing, beyond her.

Slowly her color mounted until she felt her whole face burning. "I didn't know," she said. "You shouldn't have let me go on thinking—"

"I didn't know myself until today," he interrupted her stormily; "I didn't know, that is. But when I saw you put your hands on that villain Cayley, I wanted to kill him, and in that same flash I knew why I wanted to."

Turning suddenly to look at her, he saw that she had buried her face in her hands and was crying torrionly. "Oh, I am a brute," he concluded, "to have told you about it in this way."

"What does the way matter? That's not what makes it hard. It's loving you so much, the way I do, and having to hurt you. It's having to lose my brother—the only brother I ever had."

There was a long, miserable silence after that. Finally he said: "Jeanne, if you do love me as much as that—the way you do, not the way I love you, but love me any way—could you—could you—marry me just the same? I'd never have any thought in the world but of making you happy. And I'd always be there; you could count on me, you know."

"Don't!" she interrupted curtly. "Don't talk like that, Tom." She shivered, and drew away from him with a little movement somewhere near skin to disgust.

He winced at it, and reddened. Then, in a voice that sounded curiously thick to her, curiously unlike his own, he asked a question: "If I had told you all this a month ago—told you how I felt toward you, and asked you, loving me the way you do, to marry me just the same, would you?"

"Oh, I suppose you would have refused. But would you have shuddered and shrunk away from me—like that?"

"Did I shudder and shrink away?" she asked. "I didn't know it. I wasn't angry; I'm not now. But—but that was a terrible thing you asked of me."

"Would it have struck you as horrible," he persisted, "if I had asked it a month ago?"

"Perhaps not," she answered thoughtfully. "I've changed a good deal in the last month—since we sailed away from San Francisco and left the world behind us—our world—and came out into this great white empty one. I don't know why that is."

"I know." He was speaking with a sort of brutal intensity that startled her. "I know. It's not in the last month you've changed; it's within the last 24 hours; it's since you saw and fell in love with that murderous lying brute of a Cayley."

"I don't know," she said very quietly, "whether you're trying to kill the love I have for you—the old love—or not, Tom, but unless you're very careful, you'll succeed in doing it. I don't think I want to talk to you any more now, not even sit here beside you. I'm going to take a little walk."

He held himself rigidly until till she had disappeared round the end of the deckhouse. Then he bent over and buried his face in his hands!

She found the candle in the place where she remembered Scales had laid it down, struck a light and wedged the candle into a knot-hole. She turned toward one of the bunks with the idea of stretching out there, and by relaxing her muscles, persuade, perhaps, her overstrung nerves to relax, too.

She had taken a step toward it, indeed, before she saw, through the murk and candle smoke, the thing that lay right before her eyes—a rather large, brass-bound rosewood box or chest. It had not been here in the afternoon when they had entered the place, for they had searched its bare interior thoroughly in the hope that there might be something which previous investigators had overlooked. This box, six inches high and a foot long, or more, could not have been here then. It was standing now in the most conspicuous place in the room—in the very middle of the bunk.

The sight of it might well have caused astonishment or alarm in the girl's mind. But it was neither alarm nor astonishment that her next act expressed. She dropped down on her knees beside the rude wooden bunk, drew the chest up close in the tight embrace of her young arms, laid her cheek against the cold polished surface of its blackened wood, and cried.

Every question that might have asked itself—how the thing could have come there, and what its coming might pretend to herself or to the other of the Aurora's people—was swept away in a sudden rush of filial affection and regret which the sight of it instantly awoke. It had reached her with that sudden poignant stab of memory which inanimate objects, familiar by long association, seem to be more potent to call up than the very persons of the friends with whom they are associated. The sight of her father himself could hardly have had so instantaneous and overwhelming an effect upon her as the sight of this old chest, which was one of the earliest chest, which was one of the earliest of her associations with him.

It had always stood, until he had taken it with him on that last voyage of his, upon a certain farther corner of his desk in the old library. It was one of those objects of a class that children always love—smooth, polished, beautiful; beautiful and, at the same time, defying curiosity.

It was quite a masterpiece of cabin work. No hinges were visible, and the cover fitted so closely upon the box itself that the line which separated them was hard to discover. And there was no trace of keyhole or lock. To those uninformed into its secret, it defied any attempt to open it.

Presently she seated herself on the bunk, took the little chest on her knees and set about opening it. Between the cold and her excitement she found this rather a difficult thing to do, though her mind never, never hesitated over the slightest detail of the necessary formula of procedure. She knew in just what order to press in those innocent-looking little ornamental tacks in the brass binding; remembered the right moment to turn the box up on its end and let the just released steel ball roll down its channel to the pocket, where it must lie before the last pressure upon the Terhune to Be in Command.

Commander Terhune will be placed in command of all the American forces and men will be sent to Grenada, the rebel stronghold further into the jungle beyond Managua. The gunboat Denver has been ordered to San Juan del Sur to protect the cable station and to act as a wireless station, the land lines to San Juan del Sur from Corinto and Managua having been destroyed.

Honduras Gives Assistance.

San Juan del Sur, Nicaragua, Aug. 31.—It is reported here that a force of Honduran government troops is on its way from the border to assist President Diaz of Nicaragua in putting down the revolt. It is also reported by refugees from the interior that soldiers will be sent against the revolutionists by the president of Salvador. President Diaz having requested his aid.

STEPHENSON HAS A COLD

Condition of Senator Not as Serious as at First Reported.

Escanaba, Mich., Aug. 31.—Reports received here from United States Senator Isaac Stephenson's fishing camp in the woods say that the senator is suffering from a slight cold and that his condition is not as grave as was at first reported. It was said that when he contracted the cold it was thought best to have physicians with him and the fact that the physicians left this city hurriedly caused the report that the senator's condition was serious.

Up to the moment she had not realized what the finding of the dispatch box meant. It had not occurred to her that a full account of her father's expedition, a narrative which would reach, perhaps, to the morning of the last day of all, was lying here, right under her eyes.

But now when the cover opened and she saw beneath it a thick volume, bound in red morocco, she realized that here, under her hand, was the very object, in search of which the Aurora had set out upon her perilous voyage.

PLAN BARTON MEMORIAL

Mrs. John A. Logan Active in Effort to Honor Founder of Red Cross.

Washington, Aug. 31.—One hundred Americans, surrounded by rebels and cut off from all communication with the outside world, are in grave danger in Matagalpa, Nicaragua, according to a cable dispatch received by the state department from American Minister Weltzel at Managua.

Matagalpa is eight miles from the Nicaraguan capital, and there is no railroad to the town, which is in the center of a rich coffee-growing district.

The British vice consul at Matagalpa communicated by messenger with the British consul at Managua, and the latter had a conference with Minister Weltzel.

Matagalpa is eight miles from the Nicaraguan capital, and there is no railroad to the town, which is in the center of a rich coffee-growing district.

The British vice consul at Matagalpa communicated by messenger with the British consul at Managua, and the latter had a conference with Minister Weltzel.

According to the American minister, the British official in Matagalpa sent the following message:

"The local authorities are doing all in their power to guarantee life and property, but the circumstances make this difficult. Certain elements, well known for their rancor, hostility and idiosyncrasies, have frequently expressed evil intentions toward foreigners. Should this element gain control of the revolution in the neighborhood of Matagalpa, I believe the lives and properties of his British majesty's subjects, as well as those of all other nations, would be in grave danger."

Will Bush Marines.

It is impossible to spare any American troops from Managua or Corinto to send them to Matagalpa, and the Nicaraguan government cannot spare any from duty in the capital, but when the re-enforcement of American marines arrives early next week a strong detachment will be rushed at once to the beleaguered town.

The American consul agent at Matagalpa, who is now in Minneapolis on a vacation, wired the state department that he has private advices saying that the situation of foreigners in Matagalpa is most serious. The railroad between Corinto and Managua has been opened by American blue-jackets, and this force has been distributed so as to police the railroad and telegraph lines. As soon as reinforcements arrive detachments will be placed in Leon and other towns where there are American colonies.

STILL ATTACK GIBSON

Cuban Papers Arraign American Charge d'Affaires.

Journal, Owned by Former Member of Cabinet, Is Particularly Abusive in Its Statements.

Havana, Aug. 31.—Intense indignation has been aroused among Americans here by the failure of the government to suppress the newspaper attacks on Hugh Gibson, charge d'affaires of the American legation. El Siglo, which is owned by General Machado, formerly a member of the cabinet, again attacks Gibson personally, declaring that he is known as a buffoon and a frequenter of all-night cafes in company with certain other alleged undesirable Americans. It describes the meetings of Gibson and two of these men as orgies and accuses the charge d'affaires of protecting an American who had insulted the police.

Enrique Maza, the newspaper reporter who assaulted Gibson, was arrested for the third time and committed to jail to await indictment. Protests from Gibson against the lax manner in which Maza had been twice arrested and twice released brought about his commitment to jail. Immediately after Maza's arrest the squad of secret service men who have been detailed to guard Gibson was relieved from duty.

MEDICINE KILLED POTTER

Chinese Physician's Treatment Is Blamed for Death of Sculptor.

Seattle, Wash., Aug. 31.—Treatment for a skin disease by a Chinese physician was responsible for the death here of Louis Potter, the New York sculptor, according to a statement by Coroner J. C. Snyder. Dr. Snyder said Potter had taken six bottles of a black fluid, the nature of which he had not yet determined.

MRS. H. H. ROGERS DEAD

Widow of Oil Magnate Dies of Heart Disease.

End Comes Abruptly in Her Private Car "Sunset" En Route to New York City.

New York, Aug. 31.—En route to her home in this city from Bretton Woods, N. H., Mrs. Henry H. Rogers, widow of the late Standard Oil magnate, died in her private car Sunset of heart disease, four hours before the speeding White Mountain express pulled into the city. Mrs. Rogers, who was sixty-five years old, left Bretton Woods in an effort to reach her home in this city before her death. She realized that she had but a short time to live. She was carried from the hotel to the waiting train on a stretcher.

When the train reached here Doctor McLeod was at once called and announced that death had been brought on by heart disease, from which Mrs. Rogers had suffered for ten years. No funeral arrangements have been made as yet. In a statement given out it was said the estate of the dead woman would be very small. By his will H. H. Rogers left her the city residence and an annuity of $100,000 a year. The rest of his estate was divided among his four children.

Another Hope Blasted.

"Life is just one blamed disappointment after another."

"What's the matter now?"

"I had all arrangements made for a trip through the Yellowstone Park."

"Can't you go?"

"Yes, but my wife's finally made up her mind that she will go along. She thought at first it would be too hard a trip for her."

"Well, Hardly."

Find the Man

Every man and woman is anxious to buy some article—necessity or luxury—every day of his or her life. Single handed it would take you months to seek out those interested in your line of business.

An advertisement in this paper does the work instantaneously. It corrals the purchaser—bring him to your store—makes him buy things you advertised.
